SAMPLE REPORTS

Department of Commerce (2018-19)

Flipped Method of Learning

The most common technique for moving lecture material from in-person class time to before class by making it homework is flipped learning. This considers the more intelligent picking up that goes place in class. In flipped learning sessions, understudies frequently watch address videos. Other names for flipped instruction include switch education, the inverted study hall, and flipped education. Flipped learning's major objective is to set aside some time for important conversations, interactions, activities, and use that are already accomplished during face-to-face meetings.

Objectives:

- To increase students' engagement in learning;
- To promote the growth of logical thought in students.
- To facilitate the pupils' progress through specialized education.

Implementation:

Specific student groupings were assigned the study on "Share Market Price Fluctuation" and to go over the material and were told to present the subject in class. The teacher assisted the pupils' learning process and offered chances for group engagement and intuitive learning.

Results:

The flipped learning approach improved the students' ability to explain the material, increased their involvement, and boosted their decision-making skills by allowing them to take part in the activity.

Report on Group Discussion (2018-19)

The Group Discussion continued the newly established tradition of providing the students with a platform to hone their skills hence, we, the department of commerce of JSS, STC Arts & Commerce, BBA, BCA, BSc College and PG & Research Center, Banhatti had organized the GD Day on 10th August 2018 for odd semester and 15th January 2019. The theme of GD for both the semester was 'Monetary Policy of RBI, 2018' and 'Digital India Pros & Cons' respectively. The topics emphasized on discussing some unexplored avenues. Students expressed their views and gave different perspectives to the topics. The discussions were quite healthy and gave positive outcomes as well. After all, the aim of any group discussion should be progress and not victory.

Our college realizes the importance of group discussion in a student's life hence provides a platform through group discussion cell where students can enhance their communication and listening skills and improve their abilities.

"A group discussion increases the dimensions of everyone who takes part" -Randolph Bourne. This quote very precisely sums the learning of GD day for a participant. The participant not only understands how different people have different perspectives for a topic but also gains an in-depth analysis of the topic.

Report on Group Discussion (2019-20)

It marks the continuation of a long-standingtradition of guiding the newly inducted undergraduate and junior college students in theart of public speaking and informing them of the various public speaking opportunities that, we, the department of commerce of JSS, STC Arts & Commerce, BBA, BCA, BSc College and PG & Research Center, Banhatti had organized the GD Day on 13th August 2019 for odd semester and 20th January 2020. The theme of GD for both the semester was 'Communication Skills Verses Soft Skills' and 'Is Globalization is an Opportunity or a Threat' respectively. The topics emphasized on discussing some unexplored avenues. Students expressed their views and gave different perspectives to the topics. The discussions were quite healthy and gave positive outcomes as well. After all, the aim of any group discussion should be progress and not victory.

Our institution understands the value of group discussion in a student's life and offers a platform through a group discussion where students may improve their talents and sharpen their listening and communicating skills. Philip Bourne once said that participation in a group conversation broadens each person's horizons. This quotation sums up the participant's learning from the GD day extremely accurately. The participant obtains an in-depth examination of the issue in addition to understanding how other people have varied viewpoints on it.

- To urge the understudies to cultivate the reasonable learning
- To assist the understudies with advancing through customize learning.

Execution:

Specific groups of understudies were given the points on "Formation of a new company" in the class to go through the review and informed to introduce the idea in the class. The class educator tutored the growing experience and permitted the understudies for an intuitive learning, and gathering conversation. Students went on survey with a team of 10 members and collected information regarding the formation of a new company.

Results:

The flipped mastering approach upgraded the understudy's abilities of content explanation, expanded the understudy's contribution, and improved the decisive reasoning of the

Report on Flipped Learning Approach

Flipped teaching is the process of moving lecture content from face-to-face class time to before class by assigning it as homework. This allows for more interactive forms of learning taking place during class. Flipped teaching often involves students watching lecture videos as homework. Flipped teaching is also known as flip teaching, reverse teaching and the inverted classroom. The main goal of flipped teaching is to make time for meaningful discussions, interaction, activities and application of course content during face-to-face sessions.

Objectives:

- To enhance the active learning in students.
- To encourage the students to foster the conceptual learning
- To help the students to progress through personalize learning.

Implementation:

Selective teams of students were given the topics on "Impact of GST on the small manufacturing units of local areas" in the class to go through the study and informed to present the concept in the class. The class teacher mentored the learning process and allowed the students for an interactive learning, and group discussion.

Outcomes:

The flipped learning approach enhanced the student's skills of content clarification, increased the student's involvement, and enhanced the critical thinking of the students by allowing students to engage in the activity. Students went through the small units and gathered the required information and discussed in the classroom.

Report on Group Discussion (2020-21)

It marks the continuation of a long-standing tradition of guiding the newly inducted undergraduate and junior college students in theart of public speaking and informing them of the various public speaking opportunities that, we, the department of commerce of JSS, STC Arts & Commerce, BBA, BCA, BSc College and PG & Research Center, Banhatti had organized the GD Day on 12th October 2020 for odd semester and 20th February 2021. The theme of GD for both the semester are 'Inflation- Boon or a Curse' and 'Ban of Chinese App in India' repectively. The topics emphasized on discussing some unexplored avenues. Students expressed their views and gave different perspectives to the topics. The discussions were quite healthy and gave positive outcomes as well. After all, the aim of any group discussion should be progress and not victory.

Our foundation comprehends the worth of gathering conversation in an understudy's life and offers a stage through a gathering conversation where understudies might work on their gifts and improve their tuning in and imparting abilities. Philip Bourne once said that support in a gathering discussion expands every individual's points of view. This citation summarizes the member's gaining from the GD day incredibly precisely. The member acquires a top to bottom assessment of the issue as well as understanding how others have shifted perspectives on it.

Report on Group Discussion (2021-22)

As part of our long-standing tradition of guiding newly inducted undergraduate and junior college students in the art of public speaking, the Department of Commerce at JSS STC Arts & Commerce, BBA, BCA, BSc College and PG & Research Center, Banhatti organized the GD Day on 15th December, 2021 for the odd semester and on 10th May, 2022 for the even semester. This event aimed to inform students of various public speaking opportunities and help them practice their skills. The themes for both semesters were "An Impact of NPA on Banking Sector" and "Impact of Covid-19 on Education System" respectively, which encouraged discussion on unexplored avenues. Students expressed their views and provided different perspectives on the topics, resulting in healthy discussions and positive outcomes. Our foundation recognizes the value of group conversation in a student's life and offers a platform for students to work on their talents and improve their listening and communication skills through group discussions. As Philip Bourne once said, participation in a group discussion expands an individual's perspectives, and this quote accurately summarizes the benefits that members gained from the GD Day. Participants gained a thorough evaluation of the issues and learned how others have different perspectives on them. Ultimately, the goal of any group discussion should be progress, not victory.

Flipped Method of Learning

Flipped learning is the most popular method for transferring lecture material from in - person class time to before class by designating it as homework. This takes into account the picking up that occurs in class which is more intelligent. Understudies regularly view address videos as part of flipped learning sessions. Flipped education, switch education, and the inverted study hall are additional names for flipped instruction. The main goal of flipped learning is to allocate some time for meaningful discussions, communication, exercises, and utilization that is clearly met during face-to-face sessions.

Objectives:

- To enhance students' active learning.
- To encourage students to develop logical thinking
- To help the students advance through individualized instruction.

Implementation:

Particular subgroups of students were given the points on "Practical's on Financial Accounting – Preparation of Professional Accounts" on in the class to go through the review and instructed to present the topic in class. The instructor guided the students' learning process and provided opportunities for intuitive learning and group interaction.

Outcomes:

By allowing students to participate in the activity, the flipped learning method enhanced the students' ability to explain the subject, increased their participation, and strengthened their ability to make decisions.

Flipped Method of Learning

One popular method of shifting lecture content from in-person class time to homework is called flipped learning, which takes into account the fact that more meaningful learning often occurs in the classroom. During flipped learning sessions, students typically watch video lectures. Other terms used to describe this approach include reverse education, inverted classroom, and flip teaching. The main goal of flipped learning is to free up time for valuable discussions, interactions, activities, and applications that can be done during face-to-face meetings.

Objectives:

Our objectives are to enhance students' participation and interest in learning, as well as to promote their logical thinking abilities. Additionally, we aim to facilitate students' advancement through specialized education.

Methodology:

To achieve these objectives, we assigned specific groups of students to "Review on Cost Sheets of Manufacturing Units" in the local areas and lesson the material and present it in class. The teacher provided assistance to the students during the learning process and encouraged group participation and intuitive learning.

Outcomes:

As a result of implementing the flipped learning approach, students demonstrated improved proficiency in explaining the material, increased engagement, and enhanced decision-making abilities due to their participation in the activity.

Report on Group Discussion (2022-23)

Understanding the importance of speech and public speaking, we, the department of commerce of JSS, STC Arts & Commerce, BBA, BCA, B Sc College and PG & Research Center, Banhatti had organized the GD Day on 10th December 2022 for odd semester and 17th July 2023. The theme of GD for both the semester was 'Is Start-Up India Boosting Entrepreneurship' and 'Ethics or Profit' respectively. The topics emphasized on discussing some unexplored avenues. Students expressed their views and gave different perspectives to the topics. The discussions were quite healthy and gave positive outcomes as well. After all, the aim of any group discussion should be progress and not victory.

Our college realizes the importance of group discussion in a student's life hence provides a platform through group discussion cell where students can enhance their communication and listening skills and improve their abilities.

"A group discussion increases the dimensions of everyone who takes part" -Randolph Bourne. This quote very precisely sums the learning of GD day for a participant. The participant not only understands how different people have different perspectives for a topic but also gains an in-depth analysis of the topic.
